Cartoon movies out in theaters

Several notable new films are set to hit theaters this week, from a highly anticipated action comedy to a critically acclaimed biographical drama. Can't decide which option to check out first? Here are our staff options for the top three moves to check out this weekend. 1. Love & Mercy Directed by Bill Pohlad, the biographical drama follows a parallel narrative that covers two specific periods of the life of Beach Boys frontman Brian Wilson. It begins in the late 1960s and follows Wilson (played by Paul Dano) as he stops touring, produces Pet Sounds and begins to lose his sanity. By the 1980s, an elder Wilson (John Cusack, under the influence of a controlling therapist, finds a savior in Melinda Ledbetter (Elizabeth Banks). The film, which draws its title from the 1988 song by Wilson, has a love festival, getting widely praised by critics at last year's Tribeca film festival and this year's South by Southwest; it currently holds an 88% fresh rating on Rotten Tomatoes, with critics calling the biopic deeply satisfying, emotionally acute, and extremely sensitive to the amorphous nature of Wilson's life and art. Dano has won particular praise for his individual portrayal of a tortured but promising musical genius. Dano lets it bleed, giving a performance awards invented for. You can't take your eyes off him. Rolling Stone wrote of his performance. Banks has also been praised for bringing warmth and humor to the film. 2. Spy Melissa McCarthy is back on the big screen, this time as CIA analyst Susan Cooper, who has spent her entire career office-bound and helping dashing agent Bradley Fine (Jude Law), despite being a steady field education. However, when Bradley is murdered by a Bulgarian arms dealer, Rayna Boyanov (Rose Byrne), Susan convinces her bosses to let her take on her first secret mission in order to arrest Boyanov and help avenge Bradley. The film reunites McCarthy with bridesmaids director Paul Feig. The film has won overwhelmingly positive reviews, currently holding a 94% fresh score on Rotten Tomatoes. Critics have called Spy one of McCarthy's best blockbuster comedies yet, praising Feig for giving the funny actor a vehicle that allows her to embrace the full range of her comic abilities. As variety described, Melissa McCarthy gets the funniest, most versatile and enduring comic showcase of her cinematic career in this deliciously entertaining action-comedy. Brynes, who is fast becoming one of comedy's secret weapons, has also won critical praise for her portrayal of brutally her character and sharp chemistry with McCarthy. 3. Charlie's Country Directed by Rolf de Heer, the Australian drama film stars David Gulpilil as Charlie, a warrior past his heyday who lives in a remote Aboriginal community in the north of the country. As the government increases its stranglehold on the traditional community lifestyle, Charlie is between two cultures. Then Then weapon and newly manufactured spear have been taken away, eventually becomes bored and decides to head into the wild on his own, to live the old way. What he hasn't thought about is where he might end up or how much life has changed since the old days. The film, which screened at both Cannes and the Toronto International Film Festival last year, has gained critical acclaim, with a 92% approval rating on Rotten Tomatoes. In addition to the unique use of Steadicam to follow Charlie's character as he quickly walks through his territory, critics have praised the film for its subtle and powerful portrayal of cultural displacement and a man's determination to never lose himself. Gulpilil, who appears in pretty much every scene and also co-wrote the film, has won individual praise for his performance. It is a testament to what de Heer and Gulpilil have achieved here – with simplicity and infinite nuance – that through all the high and destructive lows... The character's identity remains etched in every aspect of the show,' wrote The Hollywood Reporter about the film. If you're looking to take a break from summer blockbusters and check out a more complex and layered drama, this is the movie for you. More from Entertainment Cheat Sheet: Sheet:
